

WHAT HAS "DRY" MAN ON PALMER?

Question Caused by Testimony in Printed Hearings on Volstead.
Sponsored by Volstead.

(Special to The World.)
WASHINGTON, June 8.
What has Representative Volstead, of Prohibition law fame, "got" on former Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, also a dry? This query is suggested by the testimony in the printed hearings on the new Prohibition law sponsored by Volstead.
Commissioner Kramer—I want to suggest right here, as I have said, if the Attorney General had not rendered an opinion recently we would not need this law.
Representative Dominick—I will ask at this time if the Attorney General who rendered that opinion is now a very consistent and conscientious prohibitionist?
The Chairman—That is a matter of opinion.
Representative Dominick—I have always so understood.
Representative Hersey—A total abstainer?
Representative Dominick—Yes.
The Chairman—You had better not put that in the record because I may put something else in the record if you do.
Representative Michener—Put it in.
Commissioner Kramer: He rendered his opinion under the law, but I am saying that now we know something.
Representative Foster: There is a question outstanding.
Commissioner Kramer: If the Congressmen will excuse me, I do not want to pass an opinion; I do not know. I never met the Attorney General.

Representative Dominick: I believe that is understood—that he is a very strong prohibitionist.

BABE RUTH IS SENT TO JAIL FOR ONE DAY FOR AUTO SPEEDING

name was called. The ballplayer was impatient at the delay. One of the court attendants, in an attempt to soothe any fears Ruth might have, said:
"Don't worry, Babe; the Magistrate has his hair all smoothed down this morning. When it's standing up on one side, look out."
"I'll bet he fines me $100 this time," answered Ruth.
When Ruth's case was called Magistrate House ordered the soft pedal on all noise in the court, gave a quick glance at several pretty girls lining the windows across the hall, trying to get a peep at Ruth, and began:
"I'm sorry to see you back again, Mr. Ruth. Drivers have got to understand the law means them. I have been sending quite a number of persons to jail lately."
"I didn't realize how fast I was going," interposed Ruth.
"The law is made for the high and mighty, as well as the hard-working, everyday chauffeur," continued the Magistrate. "When a man as prominent as you appears before me, I feel cowardly if I fine him."
"I don't want to go to jail," said children and keeper of a small grocery at No. 301 East 117th Street, pleaded guilty to possession of liquor before Justice Horst and was released on suspended sentence. Justice Horst warned Mrs. Furella that the offense carried a prison sentence, but said he would release her because "the law was to enforce order, not to revenge an infraction."

The acquittal secured by Mr. Dominick yesterday was in the case of Charles Dickman, a former bartender living at No. 81 West 103d Street. Dickman was alleged to have sold a drink to a customer in a saloon at 104th Street and Columbus Avenue, and to have seized the arm of Detective Ford when he put his hand over the glass to take it as evidence. Dickman said he thought Ford was a "burglar" trying to steal change off the bar. He said the drink he sold was non-intoxicating ginger brandy. An analysis was produced against Dickman, but the jury, with Foreman Morris P. Altman, No. 92 Morningside Avenue, acquitted him on the fifth ballot.

Subway Suicide Leaves Note to Fiancee—Feared He Could Not Provide for Her.

Alfred Gubert, twenty-four, a piano tuner of No. 74 West 49th Street, committed suicide at 4.30 o'clock last night by jumping before a northbound express train at the 73d Street station of the west side subway.
In his clothing was this note addressed to Miss Andrea Volter, a stenographer, of No. 74 West 49th Street:
"My dearest love: I told you I am not the type of man you want. So I beg forgiveness. I am very sorry to tell you that to-day I die for our love. Do not blame me, for my heart is broken. I told you I would never love another. I will meet you in heaven."

Miss Volter says they were to wed in July, and that the date had been put off several times on Gubert's plea he did not earn enough to provide suitably for her.
